An elevator repair man was killed when the elevator he was repairing dropped down the shaft on top of him.

The incident occurred at a resort at West Palm Beach. The 39 year old man was killed when the elevator he was working suddenly dropped on to him and it appears the elevator should not have been operating at all.

It seems there have been over 10 issues sighted with the elevators at the resort of not having its safety certificate updated.

Mysterious elevator shaft fall

An elevator service company has been named in a $30 million wrongful death lawsuit in San Francisco. The lawsuit has been filed by the mother of a man who mysteriously fell to his death last year in a San Francisco elevator shaft.

Ian Zimmerman, the attorney for Dan Kliman's mother, Edith, said "As far as I can tell, with the very limited information I have in front of me, I believe the evidence is pointing in the direction of a negligently maintained and serviced elevator."

Intriguingly the attorneys pending lawsuit named Scott and Elisa Stephens the owner of the buildings. The management company is called Coast Counties Management, Inc and the elevators in the building are maintained by Kone Elevator Company.

Dr. Dan Kliman was found on Thanksgiving of last year dead at the bottom of the elevator shaft. There were originally suspicions from his fellow pro-Israel activists that he had been murdered and this is a possibility that Zimmerman refuses to abandon.

Zimmerman says there are only two probable answers to what occurred: Foul play or a faulty elevator. And without investigating a massive amount of documents that may prove the one, he cannot disprove the other.
